

Kathryn Turnipseed brief bio

Kathryn found the dharma in 1995 when working with anti-war and civil society organizations in Bosnia and Croatia. She graduated from the Community Dharma Leader Program at Spirit Rock Meditation Center in 2012, and completed the Integrated Study and Practice Program at Barre Center for Buddhist Studies in 2013.

Kathryn is passionate about individual and collective liberation and is committed to fostering an inclusive sangha, where everyone feels welcome.

She also teaches at Santa Fe Vipassana Sangha, and co-teaches with AIMC board member Jen Tucker a class exploring the path to personal and communal liberation from racism. Kathryn is a GreenFaith fellow and serves on the board of the Vallecitos Mountain Retreat Center.